

Joël Pinson is a PhD candidate at the Swiss Graduate School of Public Administration from the University of Lausanne, Switzerland. His PhD thesis is focusing on the heritage dimension of some non-major sports events and their integration in territorial development strategies. He also works as a project coordinator for a blended-learning programme on football management for the Union of European Football Associations (UEFA). His research interests include the performance and the evolutions of sports events hosting strategies. joel.pinson@unil.ch